❌ Wrong / Confusing Idea	✅ Correction / Right Idea
“All countries make their responsibility” (about WWI debt)	Germany was forced to accept responsibility mainly through the Treaty of Versailles, which imposed heavy reparations.
“People were blind and didn’t have critical thinking”	Many people were influenced by propaganda and crisis, but not all lacked critical thinking—there was also repression and limited access to truthful information.
“If you don’t agree with Hitler, maybe the next day you will die”	Opposition was dangerous and punished, but not everyone was immediately killed; many were imprisoned, silenced, or persecuted.
“Hitler is the common enemy”	Hitler was presented as a leader/savior, while Jews and minorities were falsely portrayed as the “common enemy.”
“Nazis blamed all the Jews… and create a common enemy that is Hitler”	Nazis blamed Jews and minorities as scapegoats to unite the population against them.
“Majority supported Hitler” (simplified)	Hitler gained significant support, but not all Germans supported him; some resisted or were forced to comply.
“Jews didn’t support Hitler” (implied as a choice)	Jewish people were persecuted victims, not a political group choosing whether to support Hitler.
“Hitler maybe went to Argentina after the war”	Historically, Adolf Hitler died by suicide in Berlin in 1945.
“Argentina has more Nazis than Jewish people”	Argentina did receive some Nazi fugitives after WWII, but this statement is exaggerated and inaccurate.
“Trump is creating hate like Nazis” (oversimplified comparison)	Modern political situations can be compared cautiously, but direct comparisons to Nazism require nuance and historical accuracy.
“North Korea, not now, but Venezuela” (unclear example)	North Korea is often cited as an authoritarian regime today; comparisons should be explained clearly and carefully.
“Coin flipping theory about Jews having money”	This reflects antisemitic conspiracy theories used in Nazi propaganda, not factual information.
